BEACH NINE

The Beach Nine features generous landing areas from the tee boxes and large greens surrounded by low-lipped bunkers to reward the social golfer. Hole #6 is the highlight of this loop, a par five that plays on an emerald ribbon of fairway between black lava fields down to the ocean, with its putting surfaced ringed by swaying palm trees and backed by Pacific waves, creating one of the most beautiful and memorable holes in Hawai'i.

LAKES NINE

The Lakes Nine winds its way through the heart of the resort, taking its name from the bodies of water that come into play on five of the nine holes. This classic resort-style layout, part of the original Beach Course built back in 1980, will not beat you up with length, but does require strategic shots to avoid lava and water trouble. The lava beds in this area of the course created some natural elevation changes that were neatly incorporated into the design.

KINGS' NINE

The Kings' Nine provides a completely different playing experience. A Scottish links-style layout, the Kings' Nine features wide fairways and wider views of Mauna Kea in the background. Pot bunkers add a degree of strategy to shot-making. The signature hole on the loop is #5, a risk/reward par four of only 277 yards. Better players might consider going for the green, but trouble lurks left and short in the form of a fairway-long sand bunker and massive lava boulders. A truly memorable hole.
